

2010 Membership Order Form

Thank You!

NAME
EMAIL	PHONE
ADDRESS
CITY	STATE	ZIP
SIGNATURE		DATE

Your Gift of Sustainability
Is Greatly Appreciated

Mail a check for $35 for each membership to:

SUSTAINABLE LIVING CENTER
500 TAUSICK WAY
WALLA WALLA, WA 99362

Inquiries Call (509) 524-5228

*With your membership you will receive a subscription to Living Green in the Blues. You will also receive the SLC Quarterly e-Newsletter and Monthly e-Alert for workshops and events. Because your privacy is important to us, your information will not be shared without your permission.*

Sustainable Living Center 2010 Membership

What is the Sustainable Living Center?

The SLC is a non-profit organization that spearheads initiatives and serves as a resource for the greater Walla Walla area. We provide information about sustainable living and offer community events and workshops on topics like solar photovoltaic systems, organic gardening, energy efficiency, biodiesel, and green building. The Sustainable Living Center is located at the Water & Environmental Center on the Walla Walla Community College campus. Please visit our website, www.sustainablelivingcenter.com, for more information, or contact us by phone at (509) 524-5228.

What is membership? What do members receive?

Membership is your opportunity to show your support for the Sustainable Living Center and its mission serving as an information center. Join the SLC for $35 a year and receive a subscription to Living Green in the Blues, our annual publication and resource guide. As an additional benefit throughout the year, members are kept up to date and connected with the eco-community by receiving our Quarterly e-Newsletter and Monthly e-Alerts for workshops and events. Remember, your membership is tax-deductible.

What does my membership support?

Your membership proceeds will help cover the costs of the events, initiatives, and resources offered by the Sustainable Living Center. We are currently developing these exciting new projects:

Walla Walla Weatherization Project – A coalition aimed at providing free home energy performance assessments and weatherization assistance for low- to middle-income homes and businesses.

Mobile Built Green® House – A traveling educational exhibit that showcases green products, renewable energy and resource conservation at community events and schools in the region.

Builders' ReSupply Store – A store where construction contractors and the public can donate excess new and used construction materials and deduct the value of the materials off your taxes. Then consumers can purchase construction materials for half the cost—saving resources and money.

Can my business or organization become a member?

Absolutely! The Sustainable Living Center has a separate program for businesses and organizations. Please contact Jenna Bicknell, SLC Executive Director, at jenna@sustainablelivingcenter.com for more information about our partner program.

Living Green IN THE BLUES
The Annual Publication of the Sustainable Living Center

Renewable Energy

Healthy Homes

Green Building

Resource Conservation

Organic Agriculture Eco-Cuisine

Sustainable Community Development

The Sustainable Living Center is at the forefront of environmental responsibility by promoting “healthy living on a healthy planet” – both through our program offerings and the way we do business. Living Green in the Blues is our annual publication, full of information and articles to help readers live a sustainable lifestyle in a healthy Blue Mountain community. Full of surprises and delights—on every page for everyone. You’ll find the answers, insights and people in our community that open many doors to a green, sustainable future.

Sustainable Living Center
Membership Department
500 Tausick Way, Walla Walla, WA 99362

Postage
Required

Give or Receive the Gift of Green
This Holiday Season!

The Sustainable Living Center is now offering annual membership. Join now and make history as a 2010 CHARTER MEMBER!